

Chemotherapy Clinic in Sarasota, Florida

Kiana Rezvani Baghae

Sarasota,
Florida

Inspired by the city's gradient colors (from natural elements i.e. the water and sunset, but also the artificial lights)

Also inspired by the idea of playing with the reflection of light
on smooth
surfaces, which was a key element
in the landscape
of the city

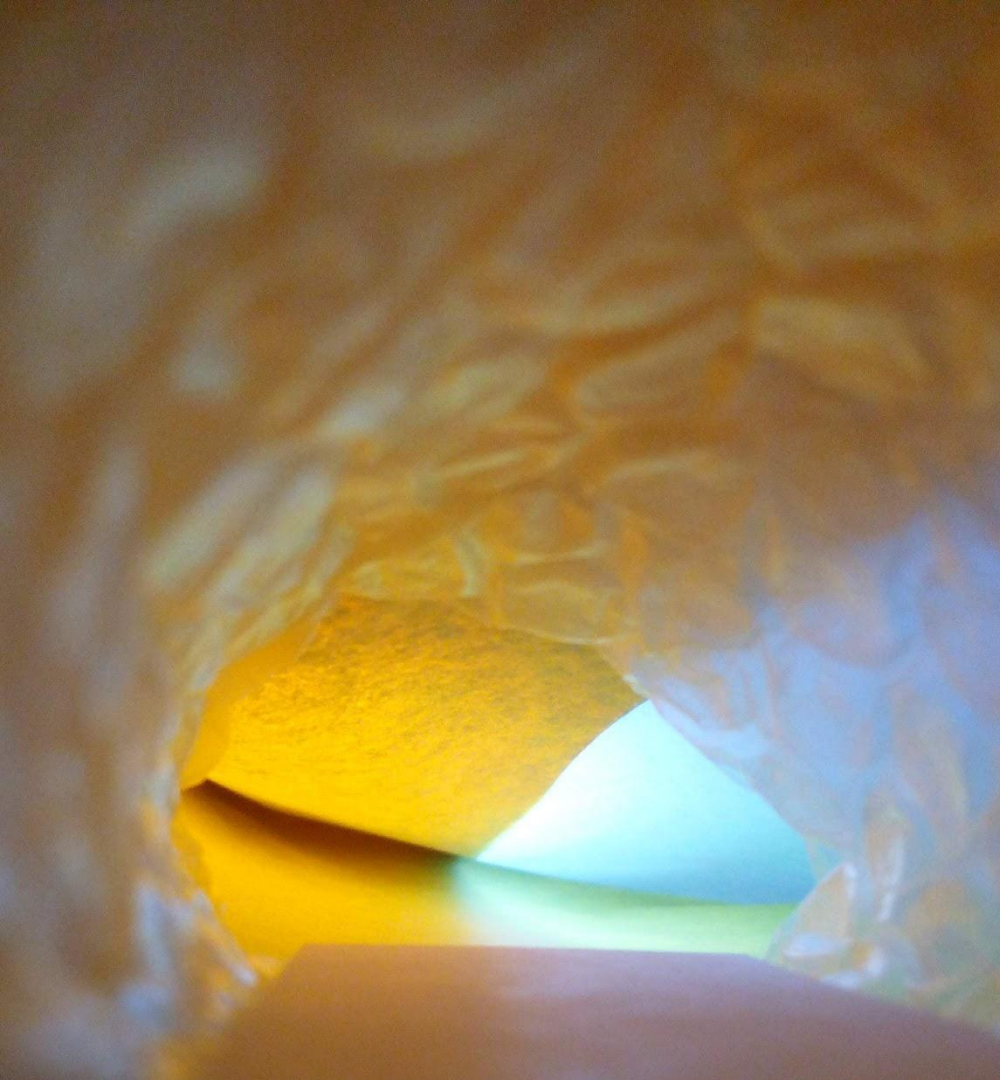

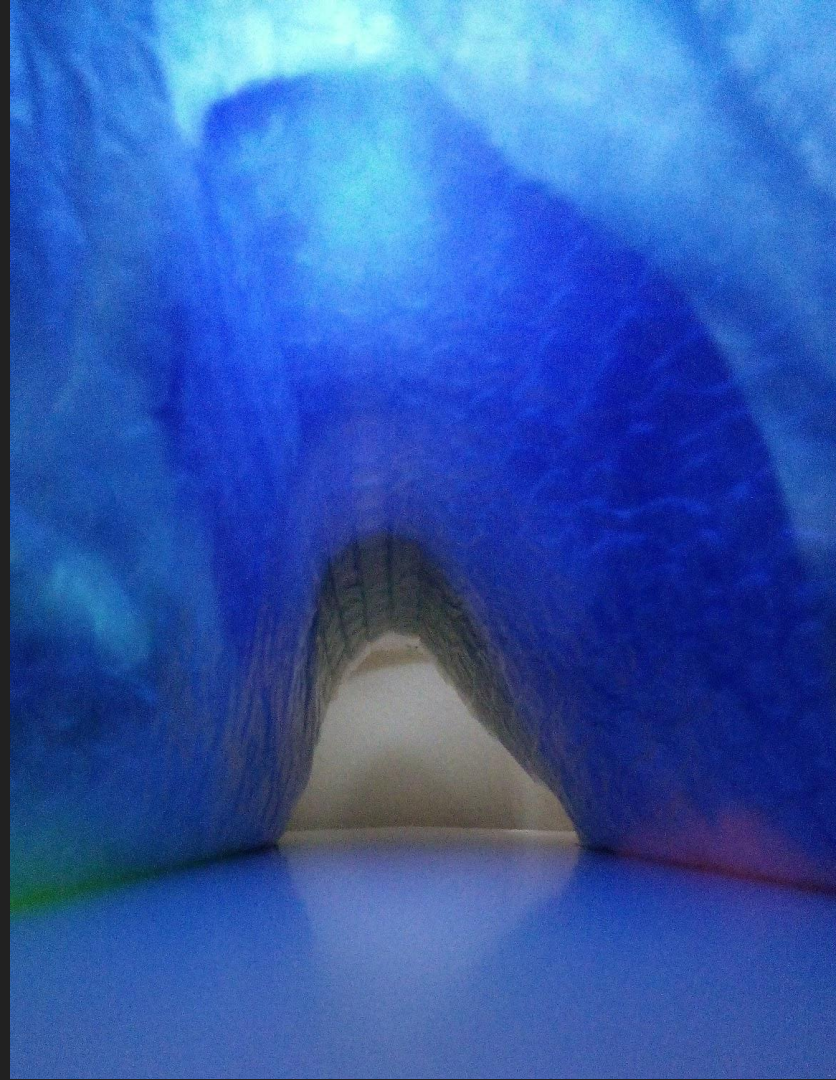

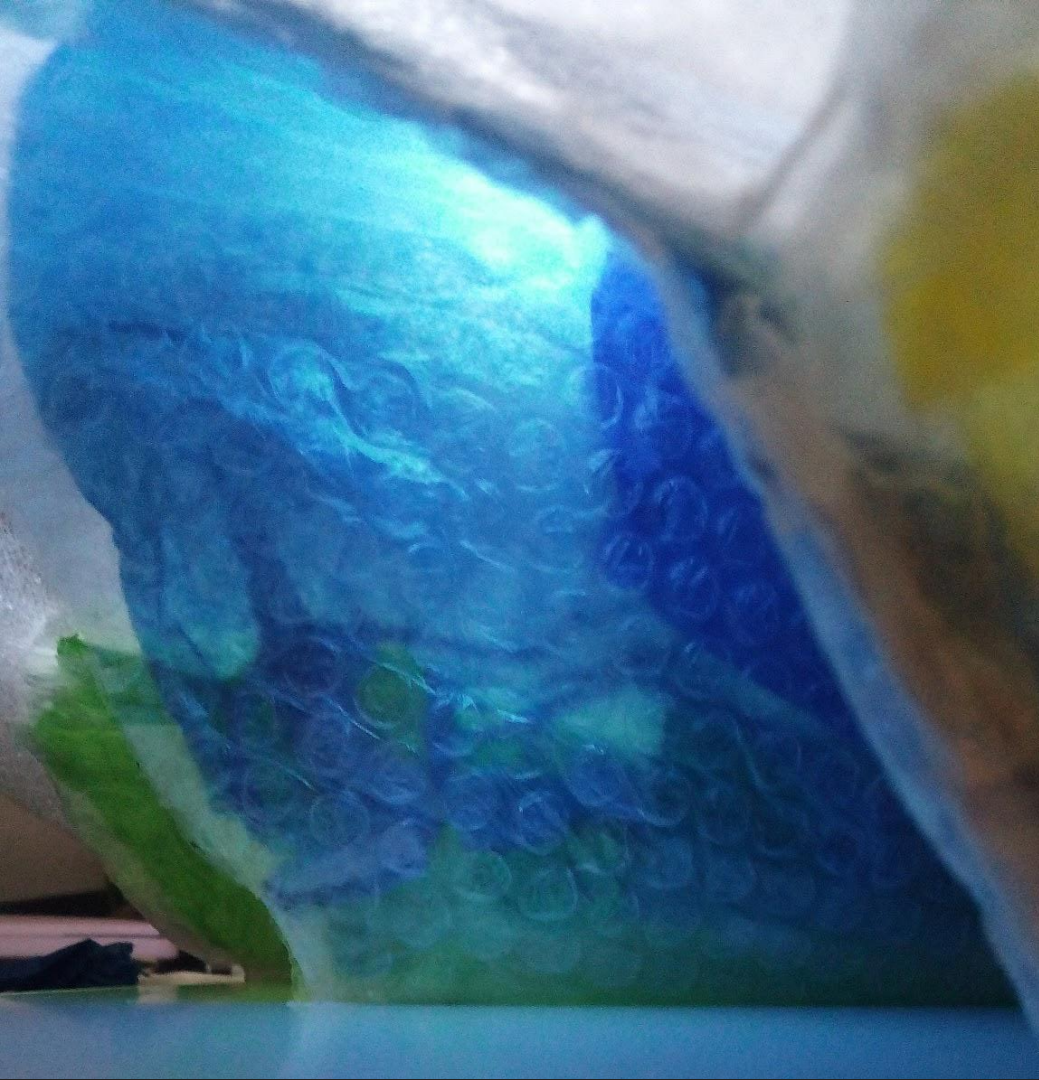

Furthering my explorations on trapping light

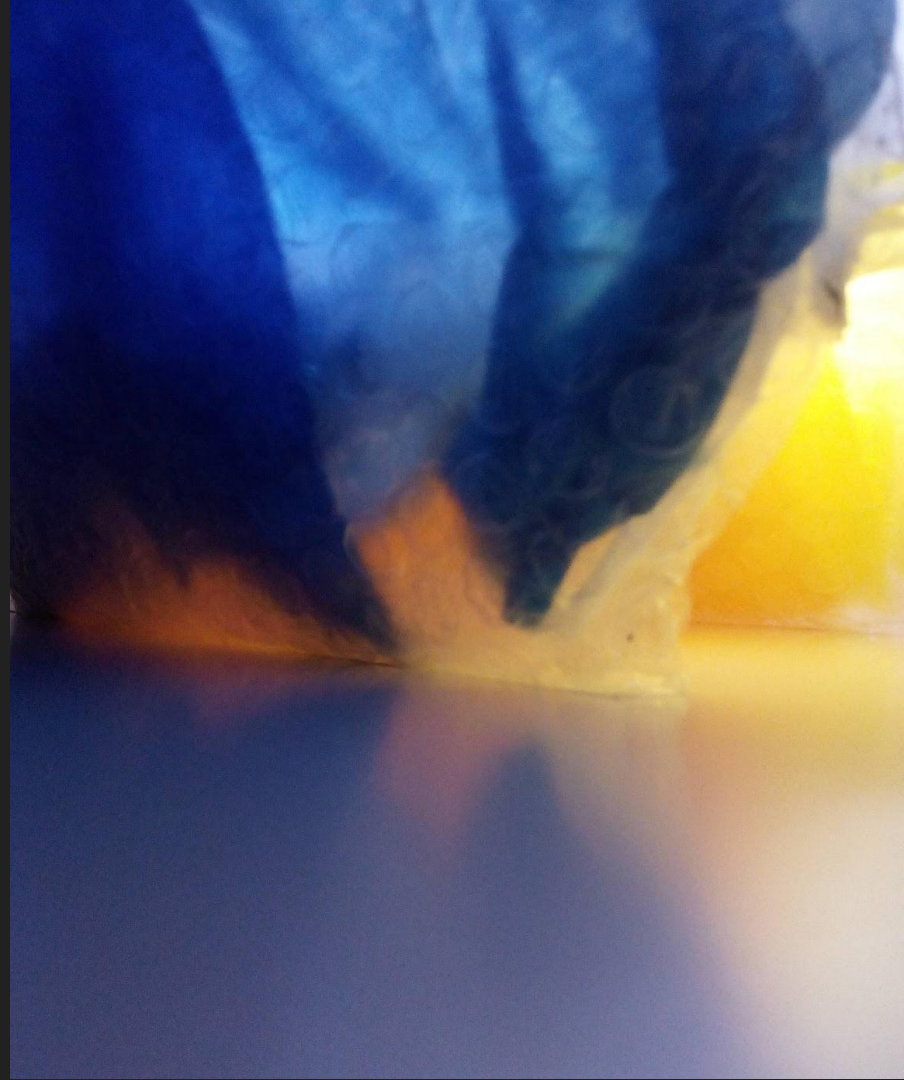

Learning more about the concept of reflection and creating gradient colours/light

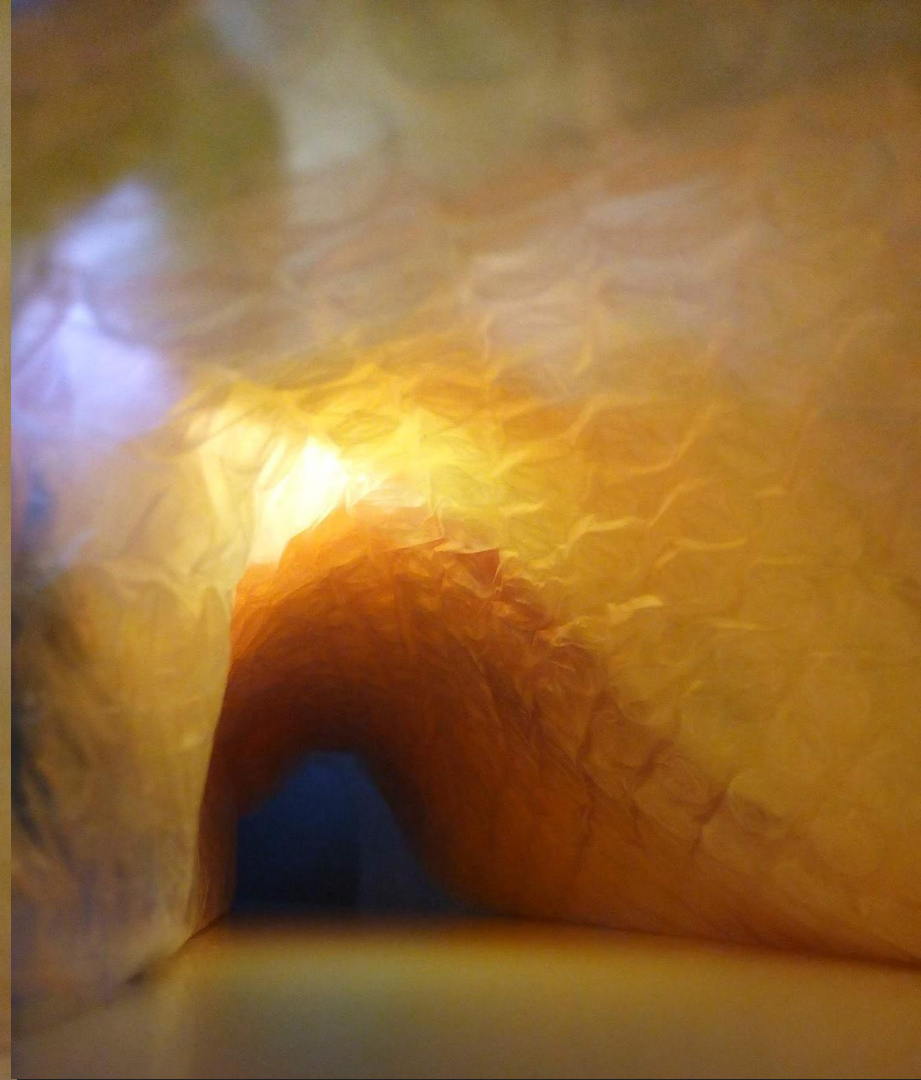

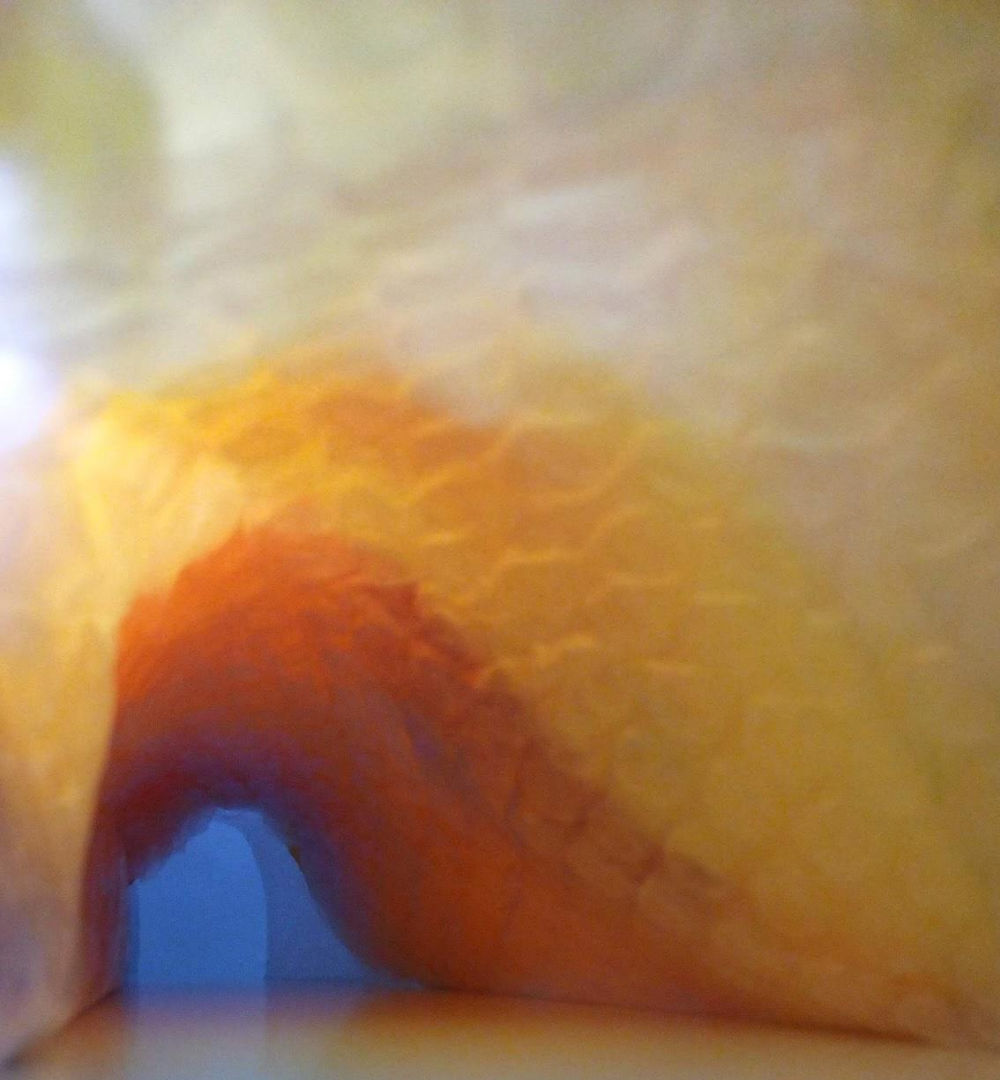

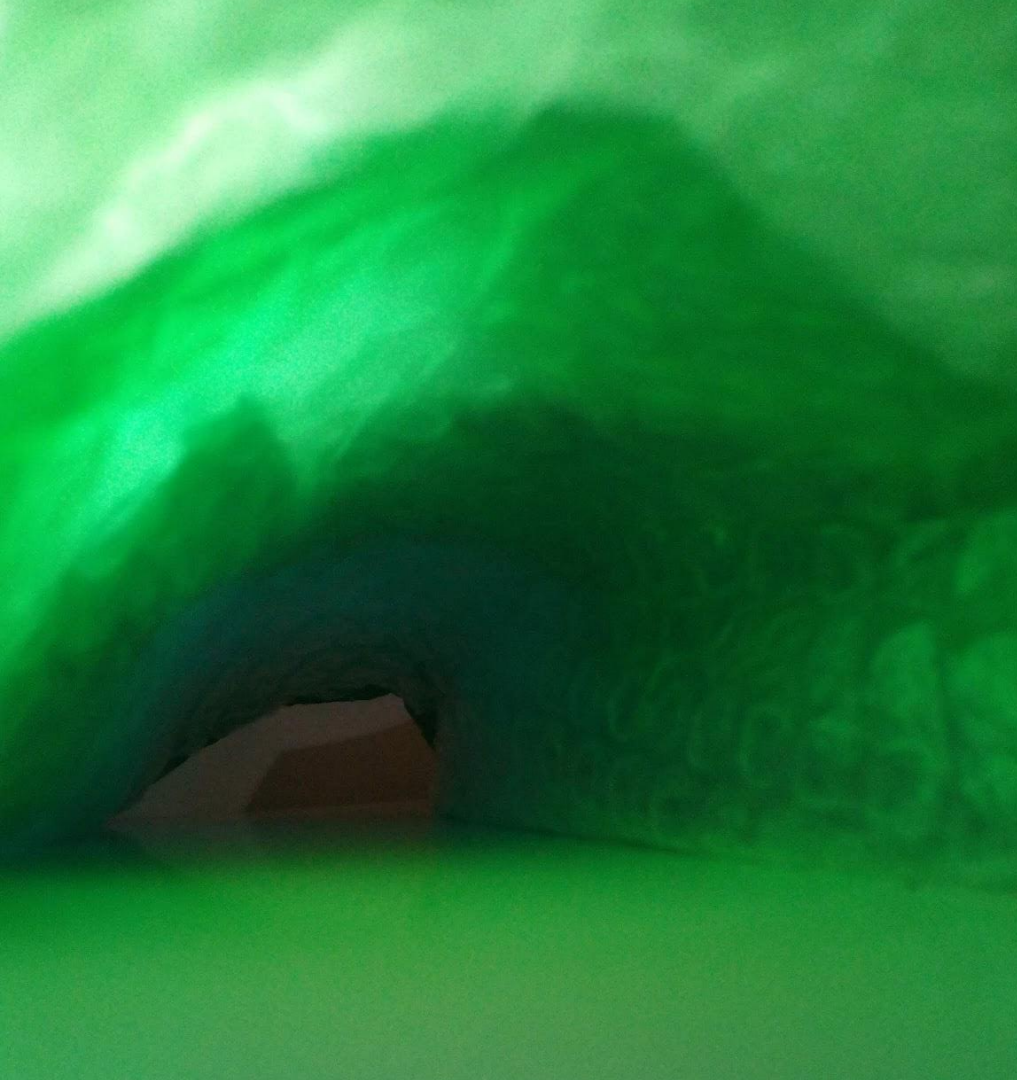

Thinking about how the placement of colours and natural light can heal a person (the blues and the greens as calming colours, which are also very apparent in the locality; as well as the bright oranges in the city, more suited for children and junior youth)
